

Beverly Gard

Indiana State Senator Beverly Gard is a former biochemist and long-time advocate for public health, particularly as it relates to the environment. She is chairwoman of the Senate Committee on Energy and Environmental Affairs, as well as the chair of both the Senate Public Health Subcommittee and the Environmental Quality Service Council. Senator Gard also sits on several national committees, including the National Conference of State Legislatures Advisory Committee on Energy and the Council of State Governments Energy Task Force. Having served in the Indiana State Senate since 1988, Senator Gard has authored numerous bills to address the environmental needs of Indiana. She has been nationally recognized for her environmental expertise.