

Peter A. Briss

CAPT Peter A. Briss MD MPH has spent nearly 16 years at CDC and the Commissioned Corps of the US Public Health Service. He has participated in a broad range cross-disciplinary research: his primary scientific interests are systematic reviews evidence-informed practice program evaluation policy analysis and research translation. He has applied these interests across a broad range of health and behavioral topics ranging from health care to community prevention. He has participated in public health teaching practice and research at state and federal levels in the U.S. and internationally.

In his off hours he is a voracious reader a tenor in Collegium Vocale (an Emory University-associated community chorus) and a Tai Chi enthusiast who lives in Atlanta with his wife Susan and their children Erin and Laura.
